

VOICE FROM

OSAKA UNIVERSITY

My name is Nguyen Thi Hoa from Hanoi University of Science and Technology. Thanks to the financial support through AUN/SEED-Net, I had a chance to study the Master's program in the Philippines and the Doctoral course in Japan. During my master's, given the strong support of my advisor- Dr. Kathleen Aviso and her research team, I received an award of the outstanding thesis and published 2 papers.

This program had built up strong foundation for me to pursue the Doctoral Degree at Osaka University. As a result, I completed the degree in 2 years and 7 months with 4 published articles. Without the continuous support from Prof. Akihiro Tokai, I would not have come this far. After graduation, I will continue working at the same laboratory as an assistant to the professor to gain more experience on education and research environment in Japan.

To me, AUN/SEED-Net creates a great academic network and platform for knowledge sharing among universities in ASEAN countries and Japan. Those who receive the opportunities from AUN/SEED-Net have many chances not only to collaborate with other universities in the network, but also to participate in projects sponsored by JICA.
